JENNIFER WILLIAMS

Business Operations Manager

About Jennifer Williams

Jennifer is a Southern California native with a diverse background spanning healthcare, entertainment, and consulting. Prior to joining 8020 Consulting, she gained over four years of experience in dietary administration at a top-ranked regional hospital and worked as an Executive Assistant in the entertainment industry, where she developed a strong foundation in organization, communication, and high-level operational support. Since joining 8020 Consulting more than seven years ago, Jennifer has become a key member of the firm's internal team. As Business Operations Manager, she plays a vital role in overseeing day-to-day functions and supporting long-term strategic initiatives across the firm. Jennifer holds a bachelor's degree in Family and Consumer Sciences, with a concentration in Nutrition, Dietetics, and Food Science, from California State University, Northridge. Outside of work, she enjoys exploring Los Angeles' culinary scene and hiking with her dog.
